BUCAREST AIM OF CENTRAL POWERS

Troop of Teutonic Allies Are Approaching Capital of Rumania From Three Directions

WESTERN WALLACHIA IS IN TEUTONIC HANDS

The Russians and Rumanians Have Taken the Offensive Successfully in Dobruja, North of the Tchernova-Constanza Railway—Serbian Troops Have Occupied Rapesh, East of Monastir—North of Subodol the Serbians Have Put a German Force to Flight—Only Artillery Activity is Reported in France.

Seemingly the forces of the central powers are endeavoring to drive on Bucharest, the Rumanian capital, from three directions. From the west the troops of General von Falkenhayn have reached the Alt river; to the north the German and Austro-Hungarian forces are pressing southward from the Predeal and Torbuzier passes, and somewhere along the Danube, either to the south or southeast, the forces of Field Marshal von Mackensen are crossing the river.

Western Wallachia apparently is entirely in the hands of the Teutonic allies, as both Berlin and Vienna report that the line of the Alt has been reached. Some Rumanians remain in the rear around Orzova, but that town, as well as Turnu-Severin, has been occupied by the Teutonic troops and the Rumanians doubtless have fled into the mountainous northward. The pressure of the German and Austro-Hungarian troops continues north and northwest of Bucharest.

Violent fighting has again broken out in Dobruja. While attempting to hold the Russians and Rumanians in check north of the Tchernova-Constanza railway line, Field Marshal von Mackensen, Berlin records, has thrown his men across the Danube at several places, but just where is not stated. Bucharest says that the attempt by Mackensen to cross the Danube at Zimnita, 70 miles southwest of Bucharest, failed. Fighting has been reported in the region of Silistria on the Danube, southeast of the Rumanian capital.

They Are to Be Delivered Within Twenty Months.

Washington, Nov. 24.—Mare Island navy yard, California, was today awarded contracts for two destroyers of the twenty class to be delivered within twenty months. Explaining the award, Secretary D. B. Jones said it was given to the Mare Island navy yard because private bids, exclusive of those already granted for the eighteen other vessels, were so high that they left too small a margin to make the construction practicable under the congressional authorization.

"The bid of the Cramp company for the two destroyers," the secretary said, "was $1,155,000 each, which was only $5,000 less than the appropriation and left so small a margin for chances as practically to make it impossible to accept their bid."

The Mare Island yard bid is $965,105 each.

JUDGE HOOK'S DECISION IS TO BE USED IN TEST CASE

To Determine the Constitutionality of the Adamson Act. Washington, Nov. 24.—Attorney-General Gregory telegraphed the supreme court today that he approved the plans for a test case to determine the constitutionality of the Adamson act agreed upon there last week. The transcript of the record in that case is expected at the department of justice tomorrow and will be promptly filed with the supreme court.

The attorney-general said the agreement would be signed by the railroad attorneys in Kansas City tonight that they approved the plans for a test case to determine the constitutionality of the Adamson act agreed upon there last week. The transcript of the record in that case is expected at the department of justice tomorrow and will be promptly filed with the supreme court.

If an early date is fixed the government hopes the case may be decided before January 1, when the law becomes effective. Under the agreement it was pointed out here, the railroad attorneys are to institute any prosecutions under the law before the determination of the Missouri, Oklahoma and Gulf case. This does not mean, however, that the government may not collect evidence on which future prosecutions may be based if the law is found constitutional.

As understood here the carriers coming into the agreement would keep such accounts as are necessary under the law to make payments to the affected employees in case the law is held unconstitutional. However, that the government may not collect evidence on which future prosecutions may be based if the law is found constitutional.

38 ACRE TRACT FOR OLD KASSAN NATIONAL MONUMENT

Includes the Well Known Abandoned Village of That Name in Alaska.

Washington, Nov. 24.—The "Old Kaskan National Monument," consisting of 38 acres within the Tongass National Forest, Alaska, has been created by presidential proclamation as a result of recommendations made by the Secretary of Agriculture. The tract embraces the well-known abandoned Haida Indian village of Old Kaskan, situated on Prince of Wales Island in Southeastern Alaska, about thirty miles west of Ketchikan. The village was abandoned by the Indians about ten years ago. Among the ruins which remain there are about fifty Indian totem poles, five or six of which are classed as exceedingly rare and specimens. In the deserted village there are also eight large square buildings which were originally constructed according to the peculiar customs of the Haida Indians, which, it is stated by those best qualified to know, represent the best specimens of Haida architecture that now remain in Alaska. The buildings are approximately 40 by 60 feet in size and are made entirely of round and curved logs, the roof being made of a number of Indian graves with the typical small grave houses erected by the Alaskan Indians.

Since the village was abandoned by the Indians the buildings have been rapidly falling into a state of disrepair and decay. It was decided to acquire the tract as a national monument to preserve the ruins and to protect them from vandalism by tourists and souvenir hunters. The monument is situated on the coast of Alaska, about thirty miles west of Ketchikan.

There are some people who will tell you that it is pretty slow business waiting around for new customers to be born, and there is little wonder that they arrive at such a conclusion for they are doubtful depending upon the customer to ferret them out and develop their business for them instead of getting busy and letting those within a proper trading radius of their store know that they are engaged in the business of selling goods which the people want and desirous of securing their patronage.

What is needed in such cases is publicity. Start a campaign of advertising that will reach the customers that are wanted. They read the newspaper and they have come to rely upon it for information concerning trade opportunities. The result is that the merchant who advertises doesn't have to stand around and wring his hands and wonder why business doesn't grow.

The thing to do is to go after the customer instead of waiting for him to stumble upon your store and the best method of doing that is through the advertising columns of The Bulletin because it circulates thoroughly throughout not only Norwich and vicinity but the whole of Eastern Connecticut.
